FEMALE LAWYERS.

Shall Females Be Admitted to the Bar as Prace tising Attorneys 1-Senator Carpenter, Arguing for the Applicant, Implies that Women Can Be Admitted Under the Constitution-Their Employment in Cases a Matter of deration for Clients Having Causes in the Courts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19, 1872. No. 67. Myra Bardwell vs. The State of Illinois ror to the Supreme Court of Illinois.—The plain in error is a married woman, a citizen of Illinois the editress of the Chicago Legal News, the tied to the Supreme Court of Illinois for listing to practice as an attorney and counselice-at-lew. The Court refused her application, although conceding her "ample qualification," on the ground that, being a marrier woman, she would not be liable on contract, express or implied, between her and her client. From this decision the case came here, where it is argued by Senator Carpenter for the applicant, the State not thinking it worth while to retain counsel in the matter.

Before proceeding to the discussion Mr. Carpenter thought it proper to distinguish it from the question of the right of female citizens to participate in the exercise of the elective franchise. On this point he said:—The great problem of female suffrage, the solution of which lies in the hamedate future, naturally enough, from its transcendent importance, draws to itself in prejudiced minds every question relating to the civil rights of women; and it seems to be leared that doing justice to women's rights in any particular would probably be followed by the establishment of the right of female suffrage, which, it is assumed, would overthrow christanity, deent the ends of modern civilization and upturn the world. While I do not believe that female suffrage has been secured by the existing amendments to the constitution of the United States, neither do Hook them to the constitution of the United States, neither do Hook them to the said of the constitution of the United States, neither do Hook the hight of divilization in the West, it will everywhere be found that just in proportion to the equality of woman with send in the being; that it was not well for him to be alone, and so He, created woman to be his help-mate and companion. Commencing with the being; that is was not well for him to be alone, and so the created woman to be his help-mate and companion. Commencing with the bearing there, in our right man and the representation of the further women and the representation of the further women and the representation of the further women and the representation of the provide of a city of the participating in discussions at t of its male citizens from the right to vote, from which it follows that the right to vote is not one of the "privileges or immunities" which the first section declares shall not be abridged by any State. The right of female suffrage is also ingrentially denied by that provision of the second section which provides that where a State shall deny the right to vote to any male citizen, "the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens in such State." The exclusion of female inhabitants, and infants under the age of twenty-one years, does not effect a reduction of the basis of representation at such state. And again, when a State does exclude a portion of its male inhabitants, &c., the basis of representation in such State is not reduced in the proportion which the number of such excluded males bears to the number of persons—males and females—in such State is not reduced in the proportion which the number of such excluded males bears to the number of such excluded males there in such State is not reduced in the proportion which the number of such (excluded males the right bear to the whole number of male citizens, that bear to the whole number of males and females—in such State; but only "in the proportion which the number of such (excluded males the right bear to the whole number of male citizens, that females are no part of the voting population of a State.

The fitteenth amendment is equally decisive. It recognizes the right and the power of any State to exclude a portion of its citizens from the right to vote, and only restrains that power so far as to provide last citizens shall not be excluded on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude. Throughout both of these amendments voting is not treated as or denominated a privilege, and evidently was not intended to be nor recognized as included in the privileges or immunities of a citizen which no State can abridge. Don the question of the right of the applicant to a dimitted to the bar of lilinois it is contended hat, like the colored citizen, she is entitled under the constitution, as amended, to practice any trade, refeasion or pursuit which is open to any citizen the United States. This right falls among the contributes or impunities?

profession or pursuit which is open to any citizen of the United States. This right falls among the "privileges or immunities" which no state may apridge. The provision that no State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of a citizen opens all the professions, all the avocations, all the methods by which a man may pursue happiness, to the colored as well as the white man; and if it protects the colored quitzen, then it protects every citizen, black or white, male or female. The fourteenth amendment opens to every citizen of the United States, without distinction of color or sex, married or single for the amendment sweeps away the provisions of the common law as it does the provisions of State constitutions and statuces, the honorable professions as well as the service employments of life, and no citizen can be excluded from any one of them. Intelligence, integrity and honor are the only qualifications that can be prescribed as conditions precedent to an entry upon any honorable primait or profitable avocations; and an the privileges and immunities which are enjoyable by the polored citizens are the right of our mothers, our sisters and our daughters. The inequalities of sex will undoubtedly have their influence and be considered by every client desiring to employ counse. There may be cases in which a client's rights can only be secured by the rough qualities possessed by men. There are many cases in which the teiling sympathy and silver voice of women will accomplish more than the severity and sternness of man will acculeve. Of a bar composed of men and women of equal integrity and learning, women might be more or less frequently retained, as the taste or the judgment of the clients might dictate. But the broad shield of the constitution is over them all, and protects each that has any composed of men and women of equal integrity and learning, women might be more or less frequently retained, as the taste or the judgment of the clients might dictate. But the broad shield

A Card from the Rev. Joseph Shea, the Presidont-A Nice Romance Knocked on the

Allow me to give in your valuable paper the truth about what we may, for the moment, call "The Pordnam Tragedy." One night Mr. E. Benoist, of St. Louis, was suddenly roused from his sleep by a hand touching one of his. Thinking the matter was a more dream ne hesitated a moment. Looking round he saw, as well as the feeble light coming in by his window at between four and five o'clock the form, but it was too distant. He then should and leaped from his bed. The form escaped by the room door and ran down stairs. Mr. Benotati then went into the rooms of two or three then went into the rooms of two or three other students to ask whether the occupants had been robbed of anything. Upon examination nothing was found missing. Here the adventure ended, save as a subject of conversation among the students. Again at one o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, 17th inst., one of the students, rooming in the same corridor as Mr. Benoist, heard a noise as it some person was coming up stairs. He went out into the corridor, and at the head of the staircase met a tall, sble-hodled man. He seized hold of the invader and struggled with him for a while. The man bade him iscose his hold or he would fire at him. The student held fast and cried aloud for help. Thereupon the man did firs, without doing any harm to the student. He next freed himself from the student's graap and escaped down stairs. The man, whoever he may be, did not on this occasion get to Mr. Benoist's room, nor did he give any sign that he was going to it. Mr. Benoist and others came to the place of the struggle, but only when the noctural visitor had disappeared. This is the plain and simple statement of laots as they occurred. The other olood and thunder elements which appeared in some city papers are unkindly fabrications or the outpourings of a very liberal imagination. The event took place in a building where upwards of twenty students have private rooms, under the charge of one of the college officers. A servant man also sleeps in the building. There is an armed watchman on day every night. The invader has not as yet been discovered.

MONEY EAST.

The money market presented the same general features of moderate inquiry during the usual hours for making engagements and subsequent relaxation and lower rates. Up to two o'clock the stock nouses paid seven per cent, and seemed quite will-ing to accept accommodation at that figure, while the government dealers were supplied at six and seven per cent. In the half hour before the closing of the banks there was a sudden decline in rates,

The gold market opened firm on the large daily demand from the merchants for customs, and later became strong after an announcement that Spain had sent an iron-clad to Cuba. The speculation for a rise is tempted by the increased short interest, and also by the prospect of higher rates for foreign exchange, particularly sterling, to ensue upon a maintenance of the existing inequality of the cotton tenance of the existing inequality of the cotton markets in New York and Liverpool. The fluctua-tions of the day are shown in the table:—

At the Stock Exchange it has been a day of realization and active weakness. The suddenly excited "outside" demand for stocks, constituting the feature of the past few days, made an easy market for large quantities of stock held in professional hands. It would be venturing too much to say that the regular clique dealers have disposed of all their interest; but the temptation to make certain of a profit on a portion of their stocks has doubtless induced the acceptance of an op-portunity to make "a turn." Moreover, there may have been a desire to encourage the speculation for a decline, which in the buoyancy lately prevailing had been largely closed out, if not lately prevailing had been largely closed out, if not entirely disheartened. It would require little effort for revive this interest, especially as the undoubted innation of pretty nearly everything on the active list invites the speculative sales of the calmer and more intelligent class of those whose opinions are not swayed by the temporary feeling of the crowd of speculators who buy at the highest and sell at the lowest stage of prices. In Iac, the market is at a stage now when its future can be gebated with strong arguments on both at a stage now when its future can be debated with strong arguments on both "bull" and "bear" side and conflicting opinions thereon be backed up with the testimony of experience. The market has been much lower, and not very recently, and also much higher, as witness the season of 1868-69. Polsed as it is just at present between the panic prices of last October and the best figures attained since the creation of our legal tender currency, both "bull" and "bear" may make money if sufficiently fortified with margin and means to withstand the extreme fluctuations of the interval to next winter. The tide so rises and falls in each year and in a series of years, rises and falls in each year and in a series of years, what with the great outflow and influx of money what with the great outflow and influx of money and with the political, social and financial commotions peculiar to our times, that a "pear" at present prices may see the market against him a hundred per cent and yet be a gainer, while the "buil" who bought Mariposa three years ago may more than double his money before the resumption of specie payments. The market this morning opened with a good remnant of the previous "buil" feeling, and early in the forenoon there was a further advance in Union Pacific, Pacific Mail and Western Union, the last mentioned being run up as Western Union, the last mentioned being run up as if to "twist" the "bears" who had sold on the strength of the latest Congressional development as to the postal telegraph question. But heavy sales soon turned the market in the downward direction, and a rumor that a Nasan street savings bank had falled precipitated a sharp decline, these several influences being helped by a further report that the government had insisted on the immediate payment of the tax on the New York Central scrip dividend. (How history repeats itself I How often this same tax was demanded last year h Erie, which wouldn't go up and stay up when James Fisk died, led the van of the general retreat of the "bulla" in this crisis and tumbled to 32%, followed by Pacific Mail to 58%, and Union Pacific to 35%. At last the breathless scurry to unload was stopped by some one discovering that there wasn't anything the matter with the savings bank, that money had been easy and plenty at the close and that the sending of a Spanish iroh-clad to Cuba didn't necessarily imply immediate hostilities between Spain and the United States. The "bulls" hereupon began buying back their stocks, and a rally took piace, but the recovery was irregular and in many instances was again lost before the close of dealings on the sidewalk, when prices were either the lowest or not far removed from the lowest of the day for more than a majority of the stocks on the active list. wasn't anything the matter with the savings bank,

THE THIRD AVENUE SAVINGS BANK.

The Run Decreasing—The People on the Qui

The run upon the Third Avenue Savings Bauk yesterday was smaller by fifty than on the previous day. At ten o'clock there were within the bank, 55; admitted without tickets, 95—sotal admissions, 150.

The payments yesterday were very slow, averaging about twenty per hour. Paying Tellers Weeks, Spenser and Seaman were on duty, and did all in their power to end the run; but the crowd without "down" at their bidding. About noon Nes. 33 and 34 presented their tickets. They proved to be George B, and Betsey Colyler, of the corner of Lex-George B, and Betsey Colyier, of the corner of Lexington arenue and Twenty-sixth street. Betsey was provided with an immense reticule, into which she crowined $16,000 of her own money and $16,000 of her brother's. Captain Cameron was at the deak when the Colyier family drew out $32,000, and offering to send an officer with them, the custodians of $22,000 selected Roundsman Doran. Doran escorted Betsey, George and the reticule to the end of the journey, and saw the money safely in the house. Betsey railed against reporters, and declared that they had given the thieves an opportunity to duplicate the Nathan tragedy. Doran reassured Betsey by promises, and the money was sent down town and deposited in a safe place before Captain Cameron retired to his home. In the alternoon about seventy-five tickets were issued for to-day, and there were twenty-eight extra books.

The officers of the bank are very anxious to terminate the run, the reporters are very anxious to quieted.

The trustees of serve that "they can fight them are

The trustees obsert that "they can fight it out on the present line if it takes all winter." President Lyon still declares that he is ready for the rush, and, laughing, says that he is now not in a hurry for the end.

street that a run had taken place on a savings bank, and a HeralD reporter, on making inquiries at the office of a prominent broker, ascertained that the Market Savings Bank, which occupies the second story of No. 82 Nassau street, was said to have failed, and a heavy run had taken place. It was late in the afternoon, how-ever, before the affair was sumciently ventilated people were present, most of whom were receiving their semi-annual interest. On calling after three the reporter found the doors of the institution closed, but after a vigorous knocking a youth behind a lighted cigar appeared and demanded the visitor's business. On ascertaining its nature he called out, "Mr. Goddard, will you admit a Health reporter?" Mr. Goddard, one of the Vice Presidents, answered in the affirmative, and, winding his way around the long glass partitioned counter, confronted the scribe and appeared QUITE ASTONISHED when informed that a rumor prevailed in Wall street that a serious run on the bank had taken place. He denied that anything ungsus had happened, and stated that they had always a large amount of money to pay in the month of January. He was disinctined to give any information until the arrival of the President, air. William Van Name who, however, fuied to put in an appearance before six o'clock, at which time the clerks, who were very cross at being interrupted by inquisitive visitors, left the establishment. Mr. Goddard, in the course of conversation, said that the examiners from the Bank Department were engaged on Thursday and yesterday in making an examination, and he could not lurnish a list of the assets and liabilities, as all the documents were in the hands of these gentlemen. He declined to answer the question, "it all depositors applying would be certainly paid to-day," and stated that the press, by applying this morning, could obtain a printed schedule snowing how the bank stood. The examiners will be there to-day and

The reporters, finding this a barren field to work in, again sought the depositor who gave him the information and inquired the origin of the report. "Well," said this gentleman, "I was sitting in my office when a Friend came in and, knowing that I banked at this institution, told me to get all the money I could out of it as there was sure to be a run. I went over and drew three checks, the largest of which I presented and received prompt payment, but it was after three before I got a chance to be a run. # PLASTERERS ON THE STRIKE.

Disturbances in the Nineteenth Ward. bering probably thirty or forty, marched to another body of plasterers at work on Fifty-minth street and Madison avenue, and by threats of violence com-petted them to knock off work. A portion of the second gang then accompanied the original gang to the corner of Fifty-second street and First aveto the corner of Fifty-second street and First avenue, where they attempted a repetition of the "knocking off" operation at Fifty-hinth street. Their little game was, however, frustrated by the timely arrival on the ground of a section of police from the Nineteenth precinct, who arrested Edward Boyle and James Foley, who were yesterday arraigned at the Yorkville Police Court, on a charge of disorderly conduct. Foley was neld to answer, but Doyle was discaarged.

The two gangs against whom demonstrations were made were, it is alleged, working for wages below the standard of the Plasterers' Society.
